Your plan

One small step for this week, then a simple 90-day path, built around your top career match

Built around your top match: Investment Banker

Your first step this week

A good first step is to identify three entry-level job or internship postings for careers like Investment Banker, Real Estate Agent, or Lawyer in Saudi Arabia or other GCC countries. You could use professional networking sites or company career pages.

Why: This helps you understand the specific skills, qualifications, and experiences that employers are looking for right now in roles that match your interests.

> YOU WILL PRODUCE
> A short list of three job or internship postings with their key requirements.

> WHEN
> Within 2 days, about 60 minutes

Worksheet:

Job Title / Internship

Company Name

3 Key Skills Required

1 Specific Qualification (e.g., degree, certification)

Days 2-7

Days 2-3 – We suggest you compare the requirements from your list of job postings with your own academic background and any projects you have completed. Note where your skills align and where there might be gaps.
You will produce: A comparison table showing your skills against the job requirements, highlighting matches and differences.

Day 4 – You could consider drafting a basic CV, or resume, tailored to one of the job or internship types you found. Focus on clearly listing your education, any relevant projects, and any volunteer or part-time experience.
You will produce: A first draft of a basic CV or resume, no longer than one page.

Days 5-6 – It would help to write a brief cover letter template that introduces you and explains your interest in a role like an Investment Banker or Real Estate Agent. You can refer to your draft CV and the skills you identified in the job postings.
You will produce: A short cover letter template (about half a page) that can be adapted for different applications.

Day 7 – A good way to end the week is to review what you produced and pick the next step that feels most useful for you right now.
You will produce: A brief note outlining your chosen next step based on your week's work.

Your next 90 days

1 Weeks 2-4 – Build momentum

We advise you to look for a short training placement or internship related to one of the matched careers, such as an internship at a financial institution for an Investment Banker role, or with a real estate agency for a Real Estate Agent role. This is a practical way to gain experience.

You could seek feedback on your draft CV and cover letter from a university career services advisor or a trusted mentor. Their advice can help you improve your application materials.

It would be helpful to identify a free online course that introduces you to the basic terms and concepts of a field like finance or legal work, aligning with careers such as Investment Banker or Lawyer. This can help you understand the sector better.

2 Months 2-3 – Build

You could consider actively applying for 3-5 entry-level internships or trainee positions in sectors that interest you, such as finance or real estate, to gain hands-on experience and build your professional network.

It is recommended to attend relevant online workshops or webinars that focus on interview skills or professional communication. This can help you prepare for job interviews for roles like a Career Counselor or Military Officer.

You might explore gaining a professional certification that is recognized in the GCC for a role like Personal Trainer or Life Coach, if those areas strongly appeal to you. This would involve checking the requirements for local certification bodies.

Your skills to build and practice exercise: Investment Banker

SKILLS TO BUILD

Critical interpretation of AI-generated financial analysis – AI tools can quickly process vast amounts of financial data and generate reports; understanding how to critically evaluate and refine these outputs is important to provide accurate advice.

Ethical decision-making in complex financial situations – While AI can offer data-driven recommendations, the responsibility for ethical choices and navigating complex human situations will remain with you.

PRACTICE EXERCISE

A good exercise would be to find a publicly available basic financial report for a company (for example, a simple income statement or balance sheet). You could then ask a free online AI tool to summarize the key financial trends or potential risks for an investor. After receiving the AI's response, carefully review it. Identify any areas where the AI might have missed nuance, oversimplified, or made assumptions. Then, write a short paragraph explaining what the AI did well and what you would add or change based on your own critical thinking, considering any ethical implications that might arise from its suggestions.

YOU WILL HAVE

You will have the original financial report, the AI's summary or analysis, and your written evaluation noting strengths, weaknesses, and your proposed additions or changes, including any ethical considerations.
